

Q9. Intramural, Co- Curricular & Extracurricular Activities (Not more than 150 words).

In order to foster holistic development, the school offers a wide range of intramural, co-curricular and extracurricular activities. The intramural activities include intra-house sports and games that promote team spirit and physical health. There are also academic clubs like literary, SDGs, sports, eco, heritage and science club which are part of co-curricular activities in the school that enhance students' intellectual engagement as well as critical thinking skills. On another hand, there are so many other after-school options that learners can choose from including music, drama, dance, or community service projects where they can explore their talents while at the same time gaining new skills. These activities form an integral part of the schools commitment to all-around education: which creates room for students who want to excel more than just in class and have varied interests as well as diverse talents.
